Angry dad shoots his daughter — because she wore a miniskirt!

By HENRY WEBER

An angry father shot his 15-year-old daughter with a .45 automatic because she wore a miniskirt without his permission!

"I shot my daughter once and I would shoot her again," 46-year-old Bernardo Manzella told reporters in Turin, Italy.

"I told her she was too young to go prancing around half-dressed. But she didn't listen. And now she is paying the price."

Manzella's daughter, Diana, was hospitalized with a gunshot wound to her left thigh but is expected to recover, said doctors, though the scar will need plastic surgery.

Manzella himself was jailed on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon and released after posting a $8,000 bond, cops said.

According to reports, the father and daughter had been fighting for weeks because she wanted to buy a miniskirt and he forbade it.

She apparently took $70 out of her savings account and bought a skirt that ended almost 8 inches above her knees, and then tried to sneak out of the house wearing it.

In his statement to police, Manzella said he spotted his daughter just as she was slipping out the front door. He tried to stop her but she ran away, taunting him as she went.

"I lost control of myself," Manzella told detectives. "I got the gun that I keep for protection and took off after Diana.

"I was looking mad. I found her with a group of friends at the low-priced shops and told her to get back home. She called me a name and turned her back.

"So I pulled out my gun and shot her in the leg."

and his daughter insist that they still love one another. He hasn't changed his mind about short skirts. But now she agrees with him.

"I can't blame Daddy for shooting me because I did defy him," she said. "I'm just sorry I didn't listen.

"He knows much more about these things than I do.

"We already apologized to each other and I told him I won't wear a short skirt again.

"Besides, I really don't have the legs for a miniskirt."

Friendly Bigfoot

A Chinese farmer working in a field near Beijing says he met a 7-foot tall Bigfoot who watched intently as he plowed several acres of land.

Childless couple paid gypsies $32G for bizarre fertility rite, say cops

Authorities say a childless couple shelled out $32,000 to a pair of gypsies who promised to help them have a family — by ridding them of evil spirits!

By PETE COOKE

Police in West Hartford, Conn., said the gypsies, 43-year-old Gardenia Ann Ephraim and her daughter, Mary Ann Ephraim, 21, convinced the couple that they could cure the husband's impotence problem.

Lt. Stephen Lovett said that over an eight-month period the couple paid out $32,000 in cash and merchandise to the gypsies, who claimed to possess supernatural powers.

On one trip to the gypsies' house the couple, a 37-year-old security guard and his wife, were told to bring two live chickens, Lt. Lovett said.

The wife was told to [illegible] mouth and 20 minutes later the chickens dropped dead.

Lt. Lovett said the couple paid the gypsies $1,000 to bury the chickens.

The gypsies also told the husband to sleep with an egg under his bed to absorb the evil in him, according to the investigator.

Police got involved in the case after receiving a tip about how much money the gypsies and decided to investigate the gypsies.

The women were arrested on charges of fortune-telling, larceny by extortion and fraud.

They pleaded not guilty and were released from custody after posting a $100,000 cash bond.

Lt. Lovett said police confiscated $1,500 in cash and keys to seven safety deposit boxes at the gypsies' rented home.

"Unfortunately, a relative got to the banks before we did," said Lt. Lovett. "He gave them a story about losing the key and needing to get into the box and the banks drilled the locks for him.

America's most powerful radio telescope IS . . .

ZAPPED!

. . . by hostile space aliens!

BEFORE ▲

THE Green Bank radio telescope in West Virginia after the alien attack. At left is how it looked after construction.

AFTER ▶

Space aliens zapped the enormous radio telescope at Green Bank, W. Va., with a powerful laser to keep scientists from monitoring their activities in the northern hemisphere!

That's the claim of Swiss astronomer Peter Voisard, who says the destruction of the 300-foot instrument on November 15 qualifies as the boldest act of extraterrestrial aggression in the history of the world.

By RAGAN DUNN

"We know that extraterrestrials have shot down planes and abducted people but this is the first time they have been brazen enough to destroy a government research facility," he declared in Geneva. "The Americans must have been learning too much about them," he continued. "There is no other rational explanation for such a strike as this. In some circles, it might be considered an act of war."

Voisard's charges have sent shockwaves throughout the world's scientific community. But the handful of men who can talk about the Green Bank disaster with authority refused to describe the incident as anything more than "a mystery."

There is no doubt that the instrument — which could detect objects almost two-thirds of the way to the edge of the visible universe — was essential to monitoring extraterrestrial activity in the northern skies.

And its devastation by a destructive beam clearly is connected by extraterrestrials who wanted to catch their activity from monitored, Dr. Voisard said.

"Any other explanation defies logic," he continued. "The telescope had been in operation since 1962 and was solid as a rock.

"Suddenly it collapses in the dead of night. What are we supposed to think? That the telescope just fell apart?"

French radio astronomer Marc Kristener was inclined to agree with Dr. Voisard but warned against jumping to conclusions.

"Before we can take whatever steps are necessary to prevent things like this from happening in the future."

Surgeon castrates man — by mistake!

A hernia patient went to a hospital for minor surgery and lost his manhood — when a bungling doctor cut off his testicles by mistake!

"I had everything to live for and now I'm nothing but a damned eunuch," said bachelor Borje Forsberg, 23. "I might as well be dead."

Borje had been admitted to a hospital in Sundsvall, Sweden, for a minor hernia operation.

In an adjacent room was Olof Lundquist, 28, who was awaiting surgery for advanced cancer of the testicles.

"It was an extremely busy day when we had 11 patients booked in for urological surgery," said hospital spokesman Holger Johansson.

"A nurse had given each of the 11 patients a number so there would be no mix-ups," said Johansson.

"Unfortunately, she gave Mr. Forsberg and Mr. Lundquist the same number."

Forsberg never imagined the hernia he would wake up to when he was given anesthesia and wheeled into the operating room.

Thinking he was operating on a testicular cancer patient, Dr. Erik Nilsson removed both of Forsberg's testicles and sent them to the pathology lab.

It wasn't until an hour later that Dr. Nilsson realized his incredible error when he operated on the real cancer patient, Mr. Lundquist," said spokesman Johansson.

Forsberg, who was engaged to be married two months after surgery, was inconsolable when Dr. Nilsson broke the news to him in the recovery room.

"My life is ruined," Forsberg told a reporter for the Swedish newspaper Dagbladet. "How can I face my love now? How can I face anyone?"

Embarrassed hospital officials have promised an investigation into the incident. So has the medical society.

"We don't understand why Dr. Nilsson didn't stop the operation when he cut Mr. Forsberg open," said hospital spokesman Johansson.

"Surely he could see the man's testicles weren't cancerous." — ALEX JACKSON

200-lb. woman chokes crawling through window

At 70, they look like a pair of youngsters!

Incredible couple hasn't aged in 35 years

We'll learn secret of their eternal youth, vow doctors

By RAGAN DUNN

A Danish scientist claims to have found a 70-year-old couple who haven't aged since they were 35!

"Anders and Ole Stampe were born in 1916 but they look like they're in their prime," Dr. Niels Jensen told reporters in Copenhagen.

"It's obvious to me that they are very special people. If we can find out exactly what keeps them young we could benefit all mankind."

Dr. Jensen said the couple walked into his clinic after reading about Elsa Hove, a 53-year-old grandmother from Copenhagen, who hasn't aged since she was a girl of 18.

The remarkable woman's story made international headlines in 1987 and again last summer — when Dr. Jensen announced that the woman who born with a rare gene that seems to retard the aging process or stop it altogether.

"The Stampes came to me with their birth certificates and demonstrated that they had stopped aging, too," said Dr. Jensen.

"I haven't been able to find a genetic cause for their youthfulness as I did with Mrs. Hove. It's possible they may young for other reasons.

"It might even have something to do with the way they live." The couple themselves say their lives are ordinary but they do "make an effort to stay young."

"We eat only one meal a day and try to avoid alcohol and fatty meats," said Mrs. Stampe.

"We also avoid exercise. We spend most of our time watching TV or talking on the phone.

"We think that taking it easy helps us from getting old. My friends are wrinkled," she added, "and jealous."

Anders Stampe said: "Nobody believes we were born in 1916."

Incredibly, newspaper reports said the Stampes look younger than their 48-year-old twin sons, George and Sebastian.

In spite of his earlier failure, Dr. Jensen vows to find a genetic cause for their youthfulness.

"It could be that all of us have a hidden gene that could help us stay young," said the expert. "If that is the case, I want to find out what triggers the gene or keeps it dormant.

"This information could help us make mankind's dream of immortality come true on a global scale."

The expert has called on a top Danish geneticist to help in his investigation.

Dr. Vedel Pedersen told reporters: "I'm not at all convinced that these very fortunate people are going to stay young forever or live longer than you or me. They will die of old age like the rest of us."

INCREDIBLE: Anders and Ole Stampe, both 70, haven't aged a day since they were 35! Above right is Elsa Hove, a 53-year-old grandmother who looks as she did more than 34 years ago.

Ex-boxer killed his aunt — for $500 lottery ticket

By RAFE KLINGER

Greedy ex-boxer Robert Payton admitted to brutally beating to death his helpless 63-year-old aunt — because he thought she had the winning lottery ticket for a measly $500 jackpot.

"The strange thing was that it wasn't the biggie, it wasn't for a million dollars," said Assistant Prosecutor Arnold Goldsen of Camden, N.J.

Incredibly, no one will ever know whether the ticket was a winner or not — because it mysteriously vanished.

"She thought it was good," said Goldsen of the victim, Helen Jackson. "She had tried to cash the ticket in earlier, but the place was closed."

Miss Jackson's big mistake was in boasting to friends at a party of her good fortune.

"They had had a discussion about the lottery and tickets," said Goldsen. "She said, 'Oh, I got it.'"

Miss Jackson needed assistance getting home and her neighbor Payton was seen leaving with her, said Goldsen. Later, she was found lying face up in a pool of blood on the living room floor of her Camden home. Her face had been bashed in from blows with a ceramic vase.

"It was a bloody, gory mess," said the assistant prosecutor.

Payton, a 36-year-old former boxer who had been highly ranked in the middleweight division, but let him go.

However, he was arrested later after a relative said Payton had bloodstains on his clothes.

Goldsen said the authorities found Payton's tennis shoes, shirt and jacket splattered with gore. He reportedly confessed killing his aunt to police and admitted taking money off her body. But he said he never found the lottery ticket.

Payton then pleaded guilty to aggravated manslaughter in court just moments before a jury was to be selected for his trial.

"I just took her life," he told the judge.

He faces a 40-year sentence, 20 of those years without parole, and is being held without bond in Camden jail.

Eating junk food makes you smarter!

You can boost your intelligence instantly by simply eating junk food like burgers and potato chips, according to the findings of a three-year research project!

The startling new study conducted at Birmingham University in England found that low-protein junk foods stimulates of genius by enabling the brain to process information faster.

"There is evidence that some food and drinks which stimulate the processes of thought," said Dr. David Smith, head of the research project. "We are trying to isolate various elements which have an effect on the mind."

In addition to increasing intellectual ability, junk food has been found to dramatically boost concentration, according to the study.

During the exhaustive experiment funded by the British Agricultural and Food Research Council, subjects were given mental aptitude tests before and after they were fed junk food including burgers, chips, French fries, jelly and cake.

Scientists discovered that volunteers performed far better on the intelligence tests after consuming junk food.

"Our ultimate task is striking the balance between the health risks posed by low dietary food and drinks and the personal mental benefits," said Dr. Smith.

Scientists involved in the study warned the public not to increase their junk food consumption until further nutritional research is completed.

Ladies! Wear a bikini — it will make your menfolk healthier & happier!

Attention ladies! Wearing a bikini now and again will make your man healthier and happier!

That's the opinion of psychiatrist Ludwig Werner, who says bikinis are stress relievers more potent than most tranquilizers. "When a man sees a woman in a bikini he experiences an instant rise in blood pressure," Dr. Werner of Vienna, Austria, said.

"But this soon passes and then the blood pressure actually drops. He begins to enjoy the sight of the woman in the bikini and this has the same relaxing effect as, say, a beautiful sunset or a calm ocean view.

"Bikinis also take a man's mind off his worries at work or his finances, so regular exposure to, if you'll forgive my little joke, its mere existence reduces his stress level considerably."

The doctor recommends that wives or girlfriends of men in high stress occupations wear a bikini at least twice a week. And "for maximum stress-reducing effect," once or twice at weekends.

"I firmly believe your man will be healthier, happier and live longer after you follow my advice for several months," Dr. Werner told an audience of women in his Vienna clinic.

This cover of eternal youth? Psychiatrist Ludwig Werner says men will live longer and be happier if they are exposed to bikinis.

THE PRODUCT... THE COSMETIC COMPANIES DON'T WANT YOU TO KNOW ABOUT!

Rip-off, rip-off, rip-off. That's what the Cosmetic Conglomerates are doing to the consumer!

A FEW POINTS OF INTEREST

Why does your red polish crack and chip right after it's applied? Why does your lipstick become moldy? Why does your eyeliner become dust pasty? Why? Why? Why? Every one of these products serves up your skin. They try to fill in the wrinkles and keep on your face the way an Auto Body shops fill in the dent on a car's fender!

A FEAT OF SCIENCE

A few years ago, Cosmetic Chemists made a dramatic breakthrough. They developed a product that is unlike any over-the-counter makeup on the market. But, the Cosmetic Companies kept it a secret until now.

Mom murders little girl — by making her eat salt!

Mean mom Beth Riggs is facing 20 years behind bars for trying to cure her little girl's sweet tooth by force-feeding her a fatal dose of salt!

The Roanoke, Va., woman was convicted of second-degree murder in the death of her 4-year-old daughter, Heather, who was forced to eat enough salt to kill a 170-pound man, according to testimony in the shocking case.

By PETE COOKE

Prosecutor Skip Burkart said the trouble began one afternoon last May when Heather's four brothers, who range in age from 8 to 12, came home from school and saw her eating sugar in her room.

"The boys told their mother that Heather was eating sugar and after that evening Mrs. Riggs decided to do something about it," Prosecutor Burkart said.

Mrs. Riggs, 36, "made Heather stand in the kitchen and threatened to spank her unless she swallowed spoonfuls after spoonful of salt," the prosecutor said.

Shortly afterward Heather threw up four or five times and her parents took her to a hospital. X rays showed a 3-inch lump of salt in the little girl's stomach. "Heather went into convulsions and died about 24 hours later," Burkart said. "The amount of salt in her system caused a loss of blood pressure and heart failure."

Mrs. Riggs and her husband, Jack, 38, were both charged with murder, but the judge dismissed the case against Riggs before it went to the jury.

According to the prosecutor, Riggs was outside the house when his wife started feeding Heather salt.

But Mrs. Riggs was found guilty of second-degree murder. She could get up to 20 years in prison when she is sentenced.

Rock 'n' roll pooch takes a bow ... WOW!

HAPPY owner Willy Mottas hugs his crooning collie Jennie.

By RAGAN DUNN

A singing dog has given up a distinguished career in opera to belt out rock 'n' roll!

The 2-year-old collie, named Jennie, made international headlines when she sang Mozart's Marriage of Figaro before an audience of 700 in Bern, Switzerland, last spring.

Critics described the dog's performance as inspired and near-flawless. But a proposed world tour was nixed after Jennie heard Elvis Presley on the radio and started belting out his smash 1970s hit In the Ghetto instead of the opera she used to adore.

"It's like seeing your brothers son earn a law degree and then get a job as a garbage collector," Willy Mottas, the dog's owner, told reporters in Bern.

"Jennie has talent, real talent. But she's throwing it away to sing this ridiculous rock 'n' roll."

Music critic Georg Busch, who once described Jennie's operatic howls and growls as "bizarre but worthy," called the animal's defection to rock 'a loss to opera lovers everywhere."

Critic Theo Salzer said the dog was at her best singing opera.

"Dogs that sing just anything aren't all that uncommon. But Jennie stood alone when she performed Marriage of Figaro. Opera is where she belongs." But rock 'n' roll fans who've heard the canine crooner disagree. An audience of more than 900 cheered wildly when the pooch made an impromptu appearance at a recent concert.

Dog owner Mottas says he'd planned to take Jennie to an animal behavior expert to see if he could get her back to singing opera. But now he's reconsidering this idea. "Jennie does seem to be smitten with the rock beat — and I'm not sure anyone can help," he said.

"It would be nice if she would once again sing Mozart. But it's also gratifying to see how much she pleases folks who are fans of old time rock 'n' roll."

ELVIS sure caught dog's ear.

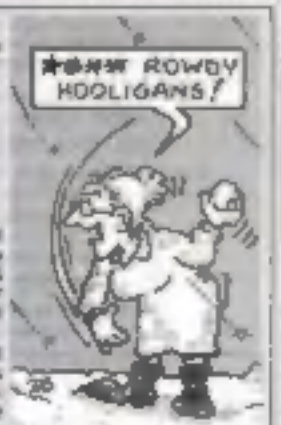
Granny fights back — with snowballs!



Irate granny Kathy Weibel wasn't parking a pistol when two men robbed her store, but she sent the thugs running for their lives — by bombarding them with snowballs!

Convinced Kathy, 60, chased after the frightened fiends as they left her store outside Lucerne, Switzerland, with $7,000 of her money.

Firing snowballs like a relief pitcher, the irate lady pelted one crook in the face, forcing him to abandon a getaway motorcycle and scurry for cover.

Then she ran straight into the arms of cops, who'd just arrived on the scene. Now the robbery suspects are in the Oldster chugalugs his denture cleaner by mistake — & dies!

By ROSE GRADY

Aging Arnie Gumpert' sweet tooth and lousy sense of taste teamed up to do him in — when he accidentally gulped down a glass of denture cleaner he thought was soda pop! He died minutes later.

The 87-year-old Britain-born retired ship's cook was found [illegible] in his bed in a home in Fresno. A chemical analysis of residue in a water glass found near the old man's body revealed traces of peppermint and the homemade "super" denture cleaner, which included poisonous bleach, he used every night, police said.

"He must have died only minutes before we found him," night nurse Jeanne Minot said. "I could hear his stomach bubbling and gurgling like a teapot when I leaped over to check his heart."

Arnie's roommate, Jack Hall, said the sweet old man had some strange habits. He loved to dissolve peppermint candy in soda water to make his own pop.

A spokesman for the home said Arnie must have put his mints into the denture cleaner he had prepared himself earlier for his false teeth.

"Then he just sat in bed and drank it down as he had so many times in the past. Only this time it wasn't his [illegible] soda it was deadly poi-

TELEPHONE TERROR!

Her jealous love rival:

Sue Popert received thousands of harassing phone calls and even posted bond to get her love rival

By DICK DONOVAN

Penky Ann Posner earned a stay in the slammer and a three-year stint on probation — for making love-rival Sue Popert's life a nightmare filled with thousands of obscene phone calls and death threats!

As the other woman in a fiery love triangle, the 43-year-old mother of two waged a six-year campaign of harassment that left Sue Popert a wretched wreck of fear and frustration.

During her trial in a packed courtroom in Toronto, Canada, Provincial Court Judge Thomas Marner heard how Ann constantly shadowed Sue when she went out on dates with the unnerving treatment they shared.

The Crown Prosecutor told how Ann tormented Sue with literally thousands of filthy and obscene phone calls and kept tabs and delivered [illegible] men to her home with presents and Chinese food orders at all hours of the day and night.

"It's getting to the point where I just can't function anymore," Sue testified. "I haven't had a decent night's sleep since the harassment began."

Although the two women have been "best friends for years," it wasn't until Ann [illegible] Sue got her first big [illegible] that the harassment began.

In sentencing Ann to seven days in jail and three years probation, Judge Marner ordered the woman never to communicate with Sue Popert again.

Before being led off to jail, Ann apologized to Sue in pleading that she had only been trying to find out if her boyfriend was still true.

University gets an 'F' in spelling!

The University of Wisconsin handed out 4,000 diplomas to graduates last spring, but it took six months before anyone noticed the state's name was misspelled on all the sheepskins. Officials under the signature of the chancellor the diplomas read, "University of Wisconsin-Madison."

Fashion snob blasts Prince Andy's wife as 'classless'

FERGIE DRESSES LIKE A HILLBILLY & WALKS LIKE A DUCK!

UPPITY fashion expert Mr. Blackwell blasted poor Sarah Ferguson, Duchess of York, for dressing like a backwoods girl and waddling when she walks.

Despite dumping 45 pounds off her once chubby bod, Prince Andy's wife Sarah Ferguson has been savagely attacked for her lousy taste in clothes and her look.

America's famed and feared fashion guru Mr. Blackwell has branded the Duchess of York a "fashion obscenity who walks like a duck with a bad leg."

He compares the red-haired royal to a hillbilly when it comes to choosing clothes.

"She runs around looking as if the rubes back in Ireland or walks cows. She's as tacky dressed as anybody I've seen in the backwoods," he said.

Blackwell says Fergie's fashion sense has left her and her supporters reeling. Indeed, the young Duchess has made a big effort to change herself from the homely-looking young woman she was into a stylish beauties.

But mud-tongued Mr. Blackwell refuses to give her a break and says she'll never fit her lofty station.

"There's no hope for her — she's a classless young lady."

And as if his attack on Fergie weren't enough, the fashion kingpin blasts Prince Andy saying he looks like "an unemployed embalmer who dresses in Salvation Army cast-offs."

Meanwhile, top model Maria Rivera, who lives in England, taunted Mr. Blackwell for his rude remarks.

"We all know this guy and he's an absolute jerk," she said. "Nobody takes a bit of notice of him. He's been doing this for years." — London Sun and Daily Mail

New Wrinkle Smoother Works Too Well — Many Plastic Surgeons Could Go Out Of Business

"...wrinkles around the eyes disappear almost instantly."

Women Look up to 10 to 20 Years Younger During New Product Testing

by Jay Reese, M.S.

WALNUT CREEK, CA – A small marketing company in California has developed a remarkable anti-wrinkle cream that takes up to 10 to 20 years off your appearance, giving you the look of a younger again. The test results have been so fantastic that major cosmetics distributors have refused to handle the product for fear that it will drive regular customers away. Even worse, where the profits are higher.

The secret behind the formula lies in a unique natural ingredient that has been isolated from human skin tissue. The substance literally "holds itself over" the skin and is found in abundance in younger, healthy skin and tissues.

Until now, practically all other skin creation have used artificial ingredients like Cetyl Palmitate, Lanolin and Isopropyl Palmitate. These allow creams to seep up and fill in wrinkles with Glycerin and other unnatural oils based. But THE WRINKLE SMOOTHER works in a completely different way. It actually replaces the natural connective tissue that breaks down as we get older and rejuvenates the skin by adding back the youthful elements that we lost with so little each year past the age of sixteen.

"With WRINKLE SMOOTHER your skin looks like the aging process has been reversed" says Barbara Brooks. Ms product's representative. "We fully expect this product to effectively 'erase' wrinkles, but what we weren't prepared for was the dramatic way in which WRINKLE SMOOTHER actually tightened up the skin and took away the folds under the chin and eyes. No wonder we're having such a hard time getting it to the stores. If women buy THE WRINKLE SMOOTHER they'll be able to throw away 90% of the skin products they use to hide wrinkles."

"Can you imagine a well known movie star appearing on national television and telling women to stop having the same brand coverage." The multi-billion dollar cosmetics industry spokesmen would pull their advertising from prime time television shows and we'd be witness the most popular shows on TV. That would never happen in a million years."

Author the author, Jay Reese is a well-known health products writer who has a syndicated newspaper column and has appeared on RAM' Study and Kiss Television.

"So excited are we elevated to sell the product directly from our warehouse in Northern California" says Brooks. "There were consumers who has the product shortly from us and see for themselves what we believe almost here are very dramatic looking skin."

The company offers a guarantee that is as remarkable as the product. If you don't look at least 10 years younger after using WRINKLE WRINKLE SMOOTHER simply return the unused portion in the original container within 30 days of the shipment date for a full $29.95 refund with no questions asked. "I'd like to see a television commercial for cosmetics offer that kind of guarantee" says the company president.

And the best news of all is that because of the cheap color used we get the same results as women. "Regardless of age, wrinkles will disappear right in front of your eyes" says Brooks.

If you'd like to look younger too without the expense of plastic surgery this product is definitely for you. To order simply complete the form below and send it along with your check or money order to International Cosmetics World or call our toll free number listed.

In order to prove what we say, the company will also send you — free — another one of their products called EYE LIP PROTECTOR. Pregnancy kills surrogate mom!

By SUSAN JAMISON

A tragic young woman with a heart condition was so desperate for money that she signed up to become a surrogate mom — and died when the pregnancy put too much strain on her.

Now the woman's mother is spreading the ... about the risks of womb-for-lure programs, hoping she can spare other young women like her daughter from the dangers of bearing children for strangers.

Strain on her body caused heart failure, says grieving mother

"TRAGIC Debra Martel is the first woman to die in the history of ... surrogate baby parenting

"My daughter Denise signed her death warrant when she signed a contract to be a surrogate mother," Pat Martel of Cumberland, Va., told The NEWS. She said she wanted to do something nice for somebody."

But surrogacy can kill you. Baby brokers don't give surrogates proper physical screening even if they propose they'll give them great care. My daughter had a heart condition. Denise should have been hospitalized under close supervision, but instead she died alone."

Denise was 26 years old and deep in debt when she agreed to the surrogacy. Pat is pleased.

Her daughter was living in Hoboken. She is a real-estate agent and could barely make ends meet.

She told her mother she could earn $10,000 or so by agreeing to be artificially inseminated with a stranger's sperm and handing over her baby to the man and his wife when it was born.

Pat tried to discourage her youngest daughter from going ahead with her plans, but a year later Denise signed a contract without telling Pat. Months afterward, Pat got a phone call informing her that her daughter had been found dead in her apartment. An autopsy showed the fatal cause of heart failure.

"I would have given her the money," Pat said tearfully. "I thought she wasn't going to do it."

"The strain of the pregnancy killed her. Alone in her apartment early one morning, she just lay down and died.

"Her death was the only death so far in the history of surrogacy, but everyone risks it.

"Think of the number of women who go through emergency cesareans. Think of all your body goes through."

Pat says the father of her daughter's baby never came forward to claim his son, who was pronounced dead after removal from Denise's womb.

Pat doesn't even know who he was, and doesn't care to know.

The 7-pound, 13-ounce baby boy was buried in his mother's arms.

"He belongs with Denise and that's where he is," Pat said. "But I wish I had held him. I often wonder what he looked like, whether he looked like Denise."

GRIEVING Pat Martel lost her youngest daughter in surrogate-birth tragedy.

Denise's death has deeply hurt her family, Pat says, and left a void that will be a long time in healing.

Antonio Carmona, 46, of Evora, Portugal, can carry on two separate conversations at once, using different words simultaneously. Experts are at a loss to explain his bizarre talent, which he says he developed in his youth.

By BEATRICE DEXTER

"I just relax and let the words flow," Carmona told reporters from two Lisbon dailies. "If I try to concentrate too hard, I can't do it."

"Usually, I'm thinking about twice as fast as I'm talking. Then somehow I wind up saying everything that's in my mind, only half of it comes out in Portuguese from the right side of my mouth and half of it comes out in English from the left side."

Carmona was discovered by a night club owner last August and his fantastic feat has been making a name for himself ever since. The bilingual businessman travels to most of the major cities in Portugal, performing his amazing talent for enthusiastic audiences.

Doctors have examined the man, but have not been able to explain how he performs his fantastic feat.

I would be skeptical if I read an ad like this. But I'd be highly intrigued as you are now.

Having the ability to master others is probably your secret wish. One which you believe could never come true.

Well, think again! Your secret wish is about to be granted. Very shortly, you are going to demonstrate that fact with any person you choose. On this exciting occasion, you are going to project a thought command to that individual. Not one word will be uttered by you.

YET THAT PERSON IS BOUND TO FOLLOW YOUR SILENT COMMAND TO THE LETTER...WITHOUT EVER KNOWING THAT YOU GAVE THE ORDER!

Only you will know why he or she is acting as your subconscious slave. Unconsciously doing exactly as you direct!

Your next test will be even more unbelievable! You'll command not just one but four or five people. This time, you'll mentally project a thought command to this entire [redacted].

[redacted], WONDERFULLY, THAT ENTIRE [redacted] IS GOING TO PERFORM YOUR SILENT COMMAND [redacted]

Again, they will have absolutely no idea whatsoever that their seemingly voluntary actions are really dictated by you. Why should they? You said nothing. made no gestures. You justed your wishes only one way—mentally!

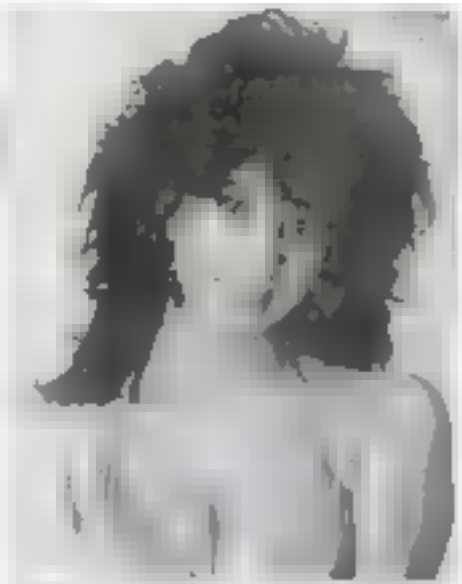
Yet, you'll top even these astounding results! In the months and years to come, you are going to intensify your mystic ability to dominate others in ways that may bring you thousands of extra dollars. The love of someone you deeply desire. Status and position you've considered unattainable — until today!

- If you sell: the toughest prospect will be putty in your hands. The urge to sign a sales contract on your terms—will be irresistible.
- In business situations, your ideas will be the ones enthusiastically applauded by the "top" brass—just as if you were the boss, too!
- In your private life, you will capture the affection of anyone you fancy—even at first sight.
- At social gatherings you will be regarded as the leader—the one who makes decisions which must be unquestionably obeyed at once!

Yes, wherever you go, whatever you do, everyone you meet will come under your silent control. Do with them as you will!

Does all this sound impossible? Not only hard to believe, but hard to achieve?

Then get set for a super-surprise!



YOU WILL BELIEVE IT—AND YOU WILL ACHIEVE IT!

Step and think for a moment. Skeptics were once dead certain that the earth was flat. Man reach the Moon? Impossible!

You and I know differently. Yesterday's "never happens" are store realities today. So if you still are a skeptic, I'm more than willing to give you the opportunity to make a real out of me.

Along with the chance to prove me wrong, I'll also give you the "risk free" chance to prove I'm right—plus a free gift! Here's my proposal:

I am now releasing an unusual manual on a subject which has fascinated mankind for ages. That subject is parapsychology.

It deals with the power of the mind to project thoughts and communicate with others outside the body, using none of the five senses.

In plain words: this extraordinary technique helps you command, control and dominate people solely with your mind!

Strangely enough, you may have already done so without ever realizing it through your own unconscious, native-born ability. Now, for the very first time, you can perform it consciously upon demand!

I call this technique SUCCESS®—the science of extrasensory persuasion. Properly used, it permits your thoughts to influence any person or many!

TRY IT WITHOUT RISK. PAY ONLY IF IT WORKS FOR YOU!

Before you actually buy my SUCCESS® manual for ten dollars, I want you to try it out as my guest for 31 days. During this time, you won't be on the hook for one cent. Because I promise not to cash your check or money order for at least 31 days after I've sent it to you.

Try this awesome technique at home, at work—anywhere! Convince yourself beyond the shadow of a doubt that SUCCESS® really works. That you can conquer anyone!

If you are not positively pleased for any reason, just return the manual to me. I'll speed back your check or money order—unclashed!

Still skeptical? OK, post-date your check for 31 days from today. That way I can't possibly deposit it even if I wanted to. You're protected 100%!

Bride kept in chains!

Beverly Anders

Hubby & landlady made her their slave — & forced her to eat garbage, say cops!

By PETE COOKE

An Air Force sergeant and his landlady were charged with unlawful imprisonment after cops say the airman's wife trudged half a mile draped in 20 feet of heavy chain to beg for a neighbor's help!

According to authorities in Spokane, Wash., Sgt. Robert Anders, 30, and landlady Helen Allen were arrested because of their shocking treatment of Anders' malnourished 22-year-old wife, Beverly.

The staff sergeant's wife was kept "handcuffed and chained outside for days at a time denied food, forced to handpick grass to feed the livestock and made to clean up after the livestock," said Lt John Goldsmith, an officer with the Spokane County Sheriff's Office.

"They threatened to have her locked up in a mental institution if she didn't support this," the lawman said.

Anders and his wife, who were married just last May, lived in a mobile home with Helen Allen, 43, and her husband.

Mr Allen was not charged by police in the bizarre case.

Goldsmith said investigators first became involved in the case last spring when Mrs Anders showed a neighbor a list of "house rules" she had been ordered to abide by.

"These so-called house rules told her how often she could bathe, how to dress, what she could wear to bed and how often she could have sex with her husband," Lt Goldsmith said.

Police investigators talked to Mrs Anders about the six-point list of "house rules," but filed no charges against her husband or landlady at that time.

But Anders and Mrs. Allen were each indicted on five counts of unlawful imprisonment recently after Mrs. Anders walked to a neighbor's house wrapped in 20 feet of heavy chain that was padlocked to her waist and wrists.

Mrs. Anders told deputies she had been chained to a wall in an upheaval shed behind the Allens' mobile home and occasionally had to rummage through trash bins to find food.

"I have never investigated anything like this before," said Sgt. Ron Eldredge, a 19-year veteran of the sheriff's office. "She just wants to be treated like a human."

Lt Goldsmith said Mrs Anders moved in with a local family following the arrest of her husband and Mrs Allen.

Frozen newspapers tossed from overpass kill driver

A motorist was killed instantly when a frozen bundle of newspapers thrown off a highway overpass crashed through the windshield of her car.

The newspapers, weighing about 35 pounds, were deliberately tossed from the overpass with the intention of hitting and damaging a car, said the presiding judge in Freehold, N.J.

Killed in the bizarre incident was Katherine Prince, 46, of Allenhurst.

"This was someone who was doing nothing more than driving down the road," said Assistant Monmouth County Prosecutor Kenneth Keller.

A 15-year-old boy who deliberately tossed the newspapers from the overpass has been found guilty of aggravated manslaughter in the case.

The boy, whose name was withheld because he is a minor, could face up to four years in a juvenile detention center. An adult convicted of the same crime would be looking at up to 30 years in prison.

Another boy who was with the defendant on the overpass said he warned his friend against throwing the frozen papers.

God is definitely a man.

That's the final word on the subject from the Church of England, where the role of women in religion has been under discussion.

But in an effort to be less offensive to women, church leaders decided to change such phrases as "sons of God" to "children of God" and agreed with feminists that biblical references to "mankind" [illegible]

Good news, readers! We've got your number and it reveals in detail what's in store for all of you in 1989!

Using a fabulous new numerology formula devised by a NEWS expert, we can show you how to predict your future using your own birth date. The numbers game provides you with astounding revelations about the coming months and personalized advice on how best to navigate the year ahead.

To calculate your personal number for 1989, here's what you do. First, add the day and month of your birth date to the number 9, the universal number for 1989. If, for example, you were born on February 18, your month number would be 2, and your day number would be 18. Your calculations would look like this:

Day	18
Month	2
+ Universal Year	9
	29

Now add together the numbers in your answer (in this case, 2 + 9) and reduce the sum to one digit (11 = 1 + 1 = 2). In our sample birth date, the personal number for the year would be 2.

Calculate your own number, then find it below to learn about the life cycles guiding your fate in 1989.

Try to get on a steady natural. Social contacts could turn out to be important to you where business is concerned. You'll feel confident and optimistic, but be cautious — don't let your feelings lead you to be wasteful or over-indulgent. Keep an eye on your finances in January. Expect problems at home between March and June.

5 It'll be a restless year for you, "Fives," but don't give in to your feelings of unrest. No impulsive moves, please. At least for the first four months of this year take the time to establish balance in your life.

Make no rash decisions and don't burn any bridges.

You may suffer from confused thinking, so get plenty of good advice before making your mind up on issues. Re-evaluate your personal and home situations and get rid of people in your life who are taking more than they give. Replace them wisely with exciting new friends. Now is the ideal time to socialize or take up new hobbies. Get out of the house. Have fun — you are irresistible to others this year.

6 You are in a super-strong position this year, "Sixes." You'll find others turning to you for advice and support. The love and goodwill you earn in the next 12 months will keep you in good stead for many years to come. This is a year for tolerance. Put perspective. You may have to decide where your loyalties lie in marriage or in work. You may feel out of step with others, but no matter. Spend a lot of time alone and try to adopt a philosophical attitude toward life. Follow the path of least resistance and you'll progress well through the year.

7 "Sevens" have a very intense year ahead. You will get many opportunities to develop your unique talents and other creative abilities to suit. The coming year will be one of the most important years of your life and you must find the courage to face challenges without flinching.

You've got all you need to make a success of the next 12 months, even though others are very demanding.

Don't let opportunity pass you by. Singles may meet the love of their lives this year, so be prepared — wedding bells are a distinct possibility.

But remember to keep success in perspective. If you let pride and accomplishments go to your head, you could quickly undo all your achievements for 1989.

8 Think big, "Eights." Now's your time to expand your horizons. You're in a powerful position, using your experience and intuition to make decisions and take action. Be careful not to let others take advantage of you. Be wary of people who are trying to sell you something. Don't get involved in the underhanded schemes of others. The beginning of the year is ideal for making changes in your living and work situations. This is a challenging year, but you can turn it to your advantage and fulfill many of your hopes and wishes.

9 This will be a complex year, "Nines" full of untimed opportunities for "Nines." It's a good time to re-evaluate your friendships and your expectations for the future. You may have to accept the fact that you have outgrown relationships and need to move on. Don't be afraid to close some doors so you can open new ones. This is a year in which past decisions come up with you. You must admit your mistakes and learn from your successes.

* * *

Use the next 12 months to observe and reflect and develop spiritually. And take care of financial obligations promptly because this will be a year of money-in, money-out. Although you may feel confused about your future, have faith. Continue to push forward. Search for what you want and you will find it.

Jealous hubby [redacted] the wrong man

By ZAFE KLINGER

Vengeful Ramadan Finoon killed his brother and chopped his head off for sleeping with his wife — and then found out the poor man was innocent.

He chopped off his innocent brother's head — but his wife was cheating with someone else!

Instead, the wife's lover turned out to be Eid El-Kadim, the man Finoon enlisted to help him in his murderous scheme.

"Nearly everyone in town knew El-Kadim was having an affair with Finoon's wife except Finoon himself," said Police Lt. Helmy Soliman, who investigated the grisly case of mistaken identity near the town of Ramoun Egypt.

"So he killed his own brother with the help of the man who was really cheating on him."

The grotesque case of mistaken revenge began when Abdel, Finoon's 26-year-old brother, caught the lovely 25-year-old Sayeda, Finoon's wife, locked in a passionate embrace with El-Kadim.

Like any good brother, Abdel explained in rage at the couple and warned Sayeda never to see her lecherous again. She agreed on the condition that Abdel not tell his brother. But the deceitful wife told Finoon that his brother Abdel was making advances toward her.

Finoon confronted his brother Abdel denied it, but the ugly convinced Finoon that Abdel was lying.

Finoon hatched a murder plot plan to do away with his brother. When Finoon asked El-Kadim to help him, the friend was all too ready.

Together the guys pumped poor Abdel in a remote field. They beat him unmercifully and then Finoon, boiling over with hate, strangled his brother. But Finoon so chopped off his head with an ax. Then he took the head in the field and kissed the corpse in an eruptions stick.

Seventeen days later, Finoon discovered the headless, rotting corpse in the ditch.

Later, a witness told police of the quarrel over Finoon's wife. Then rumors of Sayeda having an affair with El-Kadim surfaced. Under questioning, Finoon and El-Kadim confessed to the crime. But the trial tragedy came when Finoon learned he'd killed the wrong man.

"He couldn't believe it when we told him El-Kadim had been his wife's lover and he had killed the wrong man — his own brother," said Lt. Soliman.

Most men love early retirement — women have trouble adjusting

Workers who take early retirement are generally happy with their decision — but women find it harder to adjust than men do.

That's the fascinating conclusion of a study by the American Association of Retired Persons which surveyed 600 people who'd quit work before the standard retirement age.

Most of those surveyed had retired early because their bosses were cutting back on personnel and offered employees special incentives to leave early.

More women than men expressed dissatisfaction with retirement, saying they worried about money and that they missed their jobs and friends.

Busty lover reveals the . . .

Shocking secret life of a racy reverend!

SAD? reverend Walker Bailey was tipped for stardom in the church but his life crumbled to ruins. His wife, Peggy, is at left

By PETE COOKE

A busty blonde blew the whistle on the secret life of a racy reverend who carried on a torrid affair with her before his wife was brutally attacked.

Though he has not been criminally charged, the Rev. Walker Bailey of Dallas was ordered to pay $17 million in damages to his wife's family following shocking testimony from his lover, Lucy Papillon.

Miss Papillon, a psychologist, testified that she went to Bailey, 49, for counseling after the death of her father in 1983, and became romantically involved with the minister who led the 8,000-member congregation of the First United Methodist Church in downtown Dallas.

The attractive blonde said that during their affair, the duo — both married — traveled together to church business meetings in San Francisco, Atlanta and London and even discussed marriage.

"He had considered it twice," she testified.

But Bailey, who was a rapidly rising star in the Texas church, didn't file for a divorce from his wife, Peggy. The reverend is considered a suspect in the attack on his wife, who has been in a coma since being choked in the couple's Dallas home nearly two years ago.

The stunning case began shortly after midnight on April 23, 1987, when Bailey called an emergency operator and said he'd just found his wife lying unconscious on the floor of their garage.

Bailey told police he'd been doing research in the library at Southern Methodist University all night and had been unable to reach his wife by phone.

The couple's two young children were found in the house unharmed.

At first detectives thought the attack was connected to a series of threatening letters the Baileys had been receiving. But then came the news that FBI agents had discovered some of the threats were typed on a typewriter found in an office at Bailey's own church. Bailey had taken an extended leave of absence in an apparent charade although he agreed to counseling at a psychiatric hospital. Then on September 1987, Bailey quit the ministry and moved to California.

Though criminal charges were not filed against Bailey, his wife's parents filed suit against him for the attack that left their daughter brain damaged.

Bigamy wedding — real wife shows up!

A romantic man's marriage to his curvy 18-year-old sweetheart didn't last very long — because his older wife showed up and charged him with bigamy!

By SUSAN JIMISON

Thomas and Felix Anselmo, 42, already had a long and fertile union with Lila Espinoza, 39, and had produced eight adorable children with the big-busted lady.

Lila showed authorities a 1969 wedding certificate, and now her Managua, Nicaragua, husband is under arrest.

He swore to his bride Darling Rosales that there was 'some mistake,' said spokesman Diego Arduna of the Managua Police Department.

'And when the judge let him out on bail, he actually contacted her to go on a honeymoon with him.

'But now that he's back home, he's facing 10 years in jail for bigamy. And Darling is very upset because she's beginning to believe he lied to her.'

According to Managua police, Anselmo — a truck driver — came to the capital two years ago and lived the life of a bar-hopping bachelor. He dated at least a dozen women before he met Darling, a secretary going on and a large formal wedding in a downtown cathedral. But while they were celebrating their marriage at a champagne-soaked reception, Anselmo's first wife showed up with all the kids.

"They apparently attended the reception," Arduna said.

"Mr. Anselmo was very smooth, very cool but the wedding guests were terribly upset. The first wife was appropriately rude and noisy and they threw her out of the party. That's when she came to us."

Arduna said a police investigation confirmed that Anselmo had married Lila 20 years ago and the eight children were all registered as his. The groom was arrested and charged with bigamy but reclaimed his new bride at was some kind of tug-up and while on bail he left with her on a weekend honeymoon

Mom has baby while trapped in a 50 ft. well!

A pregnant mother of two delivered her own baby — while desperately struggling to keep [redacted] drowning in the icy waters of a 50-foot well!

Heroic 37-year-old Hungarian peasant, Katrina Nagy, had fallen into the well while getting water for the birth she knew was only minutes away.

And as the heroic mom struggled to keep her head above water, 7-pound, 6-ounce baby Sonja decided to make her grand entrance into the world.

While hanging on to a rusted iron rod jutting from the side of the well shaft, Mrs. Nagy grabbed her baby as it emerged from her womb, then pulled it to the surface where it gave its first cry of life.

"At first, the cold water made my body go numb," the incredible mom told from her home in the village of Tiszka, south of Budapest. "Then I began shaking violently.

"Suddenly, I felt the baby coming and I began to panic. I didn't know what I could do to save it. But as it came out, I reached down with one hand and just grabbed. Thank God, I got it before it was all the way out."

Then the astonishing woman managed to hang on to the rod and keep her own and the baby's head out of the water, saving both their lives.

Mrs. Nagy's nightmarish ordeal began late one night while her husband Janos was in a neighboring village caring for his sick mother.

"I knew the baby would come soon, so I went out to the well to get water to boil," she recalled. "I do remember getting dizzy and almost falling against the well. The next thing I know, I was in the water.

"The shock of the water revived me and I could feel myself sinking deeper and deeper. I struggled to reach the surface and I cleared desperately for something to grab on to."

Only her head was above the water!

When Sonja found herself against the iron rod the grabbed it for dear life. Minutes later, she felt her baby making its bid for life.

"When I put my baby in the water, I held her tightly in my arms and prayed to God that she was alive," she said. "Then I started screaming as loud as I could.

"I was screaming to keep her because I thought my little baby was dead. Then I heard her cry out and I screamed for joy."

Fortunately, a villager, Thomas Hitsky, was out walking his dog Rekus and heard the mother's frantic cries for help.

"I didn't know where they were coming from," Hitsky said. "But Rekus knew.

"He pulled on his leash and took me to the well. When I shined my flashlight into the well, I couldn't believe my eyes. There was Mrs. Nagy in the water holding a little baby."

Hitsky's cries for help quickly brought other villagers to the well. Scrapping, 6-foot-6 blacksmith Geza Szolgyan was lowered on a rope and brought mother and daughter up at the same time.

"Mrs. Nagy owes her life to my dog Rekus," Hitsky said. "Always I am asking it that least like the same reason. Or dog was very restless and disturbed.

"I thought the only way I could get some sleep was if I took him for a walk. If I hadn't of done that, the poor woman and her little daughter would have surely drowned in this deep well," Hitsky added. Little Sonja and her mom were examined by the village doctor who kept them in his house overnight. The next morning, Mrs. Nagy took Sonja home to meet her new family.

Big bucks for bigger busts!

The bra-busting look is back in style, and American girls are making plastic surgeons rich as they flock to the docs in an effort to keep abreast of the times.

Nearly 100,000 women a year have been paying $2,000 to $7,000 for bust enlargements since the skinny-minny look lost favor and bodies started craving cleavage again.

"Women aren't sitting around talking about what nature forgot these days," said one surgeon.

"Now they're asking us to give nature a helping hand."

Deer find new 'tweet' to eat

Hungry deer are adding extra nourishment to their diet — by gobbling down the heads and legs of defenseless baby birds!

Wildlife experts say deer on Shetland and other Scottish islands have added a little meat to their menu — after discovering calcium and other materials lacking in their vegetable diets.

Dr. Robert Parsons, a zoologist at the University of Glasgow, said the deer bite off the legs and wings of baby Arctic terns at the heads of their unprotected chicks.

"They appear to be in good health," he continued. "All they want to do now is get back to their native France.

"We were in shock over the death of our father but we knew we had to stay alive until somebody came to rescue us," Michael Melcher, 62, told newsmen.

"We waded up to the island and made a shelter out of fronds and wood. We found that we were able to eat a number of plants and fruits and there was plenty of fresh water to drink.

"We also used our clothing to make nets for fish.

"We thought somebody would rescue us quickly but the years passed and nobody showed up. Our island was a paradise but we missed the companionship of others. Though God knew Father soon finally did find us. We had given up all hope of ever seeing France again."

One of the Melchers' rescuers called their ordeal "absolutely incredible." He also said: "They are real-life Robinson Crusoes."

Miss Melcher, 58, agreed that their lives had been quite idyllic in spite of their isolation from mankind.

"We didn't have a worry in the world," she said. "The fish and the fruits and the water were all we needed to survive.

"Our days were spent on the sunny beach. We talked and laughed and often felt like we were the only people in the world. Our only real concern was when the weather was bad.

"When it stormed our island would flood and it was terrifying to think that we might be washed away. At times like that we would try to figure out some way to get off the island safely.

"But we had no idea how far it was to civilization. The thought of sailing away on a makeshift raft with no known destination was too frightening.

"We felt like we had to stay."

Michael Melcher said: "When those fishermen appeared on the horizon we didn't know whether to hail them or run for cover.

"After so many years it suddenly became terrifying to think of ourselves as returning to the world of men. Over the years hundreds of boats and airplanes had passed us by.

"But some of them were close enough to see us. The fishermen were the first to give us any hope. We were scared but we yelled for them to save us."

"I'll never forget the looks on their faces when they saw us. And when we told them how long we had been on the island they were shocked. They couldn't believe that we had grown up there. They listened in silence, then they said 'Come with us. We will get help.'"

Parents win $1M lawsuit over daughter's 14-hour tantrums

Docs' bungle turns tot into screaming demon!

AS A BABY Dana Mitchell, 2, suffered severe brain damage and now throws violent tantrums that last up to 14 hours

Sweet-faced Dana Mitchell, 5, may look like an angel, but much of the time she behaves like an animal — and becomes so wild and violent she needs a special room to contain her.

By SUSAN JAMIESON

The blonde-haired Canadian child suffered profound brain damage shortly after birth and is subject to frequent violent tantrums. Now that her parents have won a million-dollar settlement from the hospital where she was injured, they plan to add a padded room to their home.

Dana was born with lung problems and placed on an incubator for her first few weeks of life. Sometime during her treatment she was deprived of sufficient oxygen and to this day doctors have not discovered the full extent of the damage.

At a baby Dana suffered severe brain damage and now throws violent tantrums that last up to 14 hours

But by the age of two it was clear something was terribly wrong.

Dana's mother Shelley told The Sun: "It's like a whole personality is missing. She doesn't relate to anyone. She doesn't play with toys. She doesn't sit still for a minute and she can't sleep. She doesn't eat. She's always pacing. She's always crying for help. It's the brain damage. We want a specialized bedroom in the house."

Dead woman's tormented spirit captured ▬ film

The eeriest photo ever of a ghost!

JOHN BLACKBURN

Alice Flagg died 150 years ago but her spirit still roams the mist-shrouded lowlands of Georgetown, S.C. — and the proof is on film!

The incredible picture of the woman's ghost is believed to have been taken by a tourist tourist who sent copies to town officials in 1947.

And people who recognize Miss Flagg from an old family portrait agree that it is the world's first picture of a ghost ever taken.

That's exciting [illegible] in Georgetown, which is so overrun with ghosts that it is considered to be the most haunted spot in America.

"It's true — there's no end to the activity reported by so many [illegible] including the prosecuting attorney, Judge Wyatt of Walterboro, S.C., a frequent visitor to this picturesque community.

"I stop picking up on them the moment I arrive," she said. "They really love the old [illegible] area."

The ghost of Alice Flagg, for instance, has been on the prowl since 1849 and has been seen by many people.

The beautiful teen fell in love with a handsome, hard-working lumberman, who, unfortunately, didn't measure up to her wealthy family's social standards.

To break up the romance, her family shipped Alice off to boarding school — but she took with her a treasured gift from her lover, an engagement ring she wore on a ribbon around her neck.

Stricken by a deadly fever, the young woman was sent home — unconscious. And when her older brother discovered the ring, he angrily confiscated it.

Alice died a few days later — and has been searching for her lost ring ever since, according to people who've seen and photographed her tormented spirit.

Then there's Thomas Gunn, a carpenter who fell — crashing — to his death while working on a steep church roof just before the Civil War.

The church has long been abandoned — but, over the years, no one has claimed the unusual sights Gunn returns.

Sometimes Gunn continues with his work, other times he disappears with a bloodcurdling yell.

Another Georgetown legend centers around a woman known only as The Red Lady, whose romance with a handsome sea captain ended tragically when his clipper ship failed to return to port.

Torn by grief, the woman became a recluse — but continued to place a candle in the window of her home as a sign she was still waiting for her lover.

Even today, long after her death, townspeople say you sometimes can see the candle burning.

But even that eerie sight pales before the ghost of Alice Flagg.

"It's chilling," one resident said. "That picture is the most incredible thing I've ever seen."

INCREDIBLE photograph of Alice Flagg's ghost shows it as it appeared in the church haunted by a dead workman — and a ghostly candle sometimes glows in window of house below.

Infant deaths — a shocking new study

Hundreds of infants die each year of diarrhea in the U.S., says a shocking new study by the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta.

"I was astonished" at the findings, said Dr. Mo-Shing Ho, an epidemiologist who directed the study.

The study revealed 5,500 babies died from diarrhea from 1973 through 1980. And about 200,000 children under the age of 5 are hospitalized because of diarrhea each year, said Dr. Ho.

Diarrhea deaths are dropping in the U.S., from 719 in 1973 to 373 in 1982. Most of them were reported in the South.

Do you secretly hate your mate?

Quiz reveals your startling inner feelings

Deep down in your heart, do you secretly hate your mate?

That's a toughie for any married man or woman to face, because if the answer is "yes," the feeling of admitting you're a failure in love could be a terrible blow to self-esteem.

On the other hand, knowing the answer to that nagging question could let you see your relationship in a more revealing light.

Here's a mind test you can take right now to help shed some light on your true feelings.

● Your mate is engaged in the role-switching big favorite on TV sport. Do you — (a) Feel hurt at being ignored and neglected? (b) Leave him to watch your favorite TV show in another room? (c) Snuggle up next to him with a book?

● In the evening, after a morning fight, your mate tries to be cuddly. Do you feel — (a) Irritated and repelled? (b) Disgusted or frightened? (c) Warm, responsive and forgiving?

● She tells you to quit smoking (or because it's not healthy. Do you — (a) Try because it's a good idea anyway? (b) Refuse to try, even though you know she's right, because it was her idea? (c) Try because you know it will please her?

● You see a young couple in a loving embrace. Do you — (a) Think they don't know the misery and nagging they have to look forward to? (b) Think, "Well, it's nice while it lasts"? (c) Feel a warm glow and wish your mate was with you then?

● He's crumpled, unshaven and in bed with the flu. Do you think — (a) Men are such childish pains when they're sick? (b) About spending the day waiting on him hand and foot? (c) Sympathize with his suffering and wish you could do something to make him feel better?

● You catch sight of her unexpectedly and for a brief moment see her as a stranger. Do you think — (a) Wow! She sure is a beauty! (b) She's OK, but nothing to write home about? (c) How lucky a woman who looks like she has her head on straight!

If your answers came mostly from the (a) group, you care, but not enough to love or hate your mate.

If they came from the (b) group, you flat-out hate your mate!

If they came from the (c) group, you hate your mate sometimes — but love your mate most of the time. And you like him or her all of the time.

CAT EATS MOVIE STAR MOUSE!

By JOE BRAUN

A cutie-pie mouse named Malcolm was filming the final scene of an enchanting [illegible] children's movie and seemed on the verge of superstardom — till an alley cat ate him!

"It was ghastly," said crestfallen cameraman Rex Lollo. "We'd grown so attached to the little fellow. He was such a showman.

"Then that mangy cat came out of nowhere and gobbled him up," Rex said.

Mischievous Malcolm had been specially hired to star in a delightful little movie called Silent Mouse, being filmed by a Scottish company in Prague, Czechoslovakia.

The half-pint hero had virtually stolen the show from three dozen of show biz's biggest cats when a tabby kitty slipped onto the set and made a meal of the squeaky star.

"We were all ready to wrap the thing up and everyone was beginning to get a bit edgy," said director Ian Valentine, who had the widespread rodent for the role.

"We'd all been keeping such a close watch on Malcolm for fear he'd get lost or hurt. Everybody had really fallen in love with him. But we let our guard down just a bit, for just a second."

And when they did, the puss pounced — and unbelievably Malcolm became a thing of the past.

"It broke my up to see my pride and joy get eaten like that," said heartsick Ian.

"We finished the movie with a standin, but it wasn't the same. My Malcolm could have been a star."

Man dies of fright in dentist's chair!

Just hours after he woke during a nightmare about dying in a dentist's chair, Ray Dodd's terrifying vision came true!

"Ray had a pathological fear of dentists and that's what killed him," said a friend of Dodd.

By PETE COOKE

Officials in Grantham, England, said Dodd, a 48-year-old antique dealer, had been suffering from an excruciating toothache for three days before his fatal trip to the dentist's office.

He finally worked up the courage to make an appointment. But early on the morning of that dental appointment Dodd woke with a start, telling his wife, Pam, about the horrible nightmare.

"In the dream Ray was himself sitting in the dentist's chair," the family friend said. "The dentist pulled the bad tooth without any trouble, but Ray dreamed he died right there in the chair."

A few hours later Dodd found himself sitting in his dentist's chair for real. As the dentist extracted the tooth, Dodd passed out.

Dodd regained consciousness, but collapsed again moments later and was rushed to a nearby hospital where he died.

Doctors say Dodd died after suffering a massive [illegible] as [illegible] brought on by his lifelong fear of dentists.

"We [illegible] going on in the dentist chair [illegible] but a shock," a hospital spokesman said.

Little girl is raised as a Nazi!

A little girl has been taken away from her parents by authorities — because she was being raised as a Nazi!

Thea Sybile Pantheri, 4, was removed from her home in Rennes, France, because her parents made her give the Nazi salute when she woke, at mealtimes and when she went to bed, prayers heard. The couple also allegedly gave the girl white dolls to cuddle and black ones to throw in the fire.

The girl's father, Jean Pantheri, said he taught her she was the world had two types of people. "The white are the good ones, and the others, who are slaves."

Judge Pierrette Fournier ordered the child to be separated from her family.

"You have lost the right to be parents," she told Jean and his wife Marie.

Bank [redacted] when lookout doesn't see cops — he didn't wear his glasses!

A nearsighted lookout for a gang of robbers went to work without his glasses and wound up behind bars because he didn't see the police coming!

"I saw this man in black running toward me," 31-year-old Brian Scarborough later told detectives in London, England. "Eventually I realized it was the police and started running."

But by then it was too late for Scarborough and the three gang members who were in the midst of a holdup at a London bank.

Scarborough said he left his glasses at home on the day of the robbery because he didn't want to be recognized by his distinctive thick lenses.

Judge Robert Lymbery, who gave Scarborough three years and nine months in prison, criticized the lookout and his gang for being rank amateurs.

"The planning in this case was distinctly amateurish, as was the execution," Judge Lymbery said.

"Now That I'm My Own Boss, the only orders I take are for More Business!"

After 18 years of taking orders, working for someone else, I finally made up my mind. I wanted my own business.

So I started looking for the right opportunity. I wanted a business that didn't require a lot of start-up cost or inventory and still make money making potential.

I investigated a lot of opportunities. People ask me about the ones I didn't select. I remember looking at several pen vending machines. At first glance it appeared to be a good deal. Low down payment. No investment or franchising fees. No employees. I could work from my home. All of my time until I could afford my own van.

The ad said there'd never be a boss breathing down the business. So I went for the interview. After looking it over, I knew it was right for me.

How I Make More In A Day Than I Used To In A Week.

Being able to run my own business was the smartest move I ever made. I've never been happier. To make more money. It's not unusual for me to make up to $500 a day. One week I cleared $1,000!

Now I can afford all those things that used to be out of reach. A larger house.

Comes From 3 Happy Sources.

I start my day with a couple of cups of coffee reviewing last night's mail. I opened my envelopes and I'm always excited to see what's inside. Usually it's a check, sometimes for hundreds of dollars. Sometimes a note or letter from a customer telling me how much they like my product. Sometimes a check for a new order.

The work is fun and there's plenty for me. There's no shortage of people who want to be involved.

I Like Being The Boss.

I set my own hours. I'm off whenever I feel like it. Make up my own vacations. There's no one telling me what to do. I like it that way. And I get a lot of satisfaction running a successful business of my own.

The amazing leopard boy!

Wild child lived 6 years in the jungle — alone!

By MICKEY McGUIRE

A boy believed to have drowned in 1982 when he was 6 years old has been found alive — but living like a leopard in the steaming jungles of Sumatra!

An Indonesian forest expert said the boy, now 13 years old, growls and crawls like a leopard, crouches on all fours with the ease and agility of a big cat and has jaws so powerful he could easily break a man's arm with one snap.

When found the jungle boy was also said to have the ferocity of a leopard. The news report said: "He has no qualms about biting, scratching and even killing monkeys with his bare hands."

The two-month search was begun by hopeful villagers who believed the mystery boy was the reincarnation of a chief who died in a plane crash in the area.

It took five grown men to subdue him and he had to be kept tied up for days before he could be put in a cage.

Some of the villagers believe the boy was possessed and that while he was in the jungle he was protected by evil spirits.

After his recent discovery, the boy was taken to a hospital in Pekanbaru where doctors say he is suffering from malnutrition and a lung infection.

Doctors say he crawls on all fours, growls and eats only r[illegible]t!

Despite several months of therapy and retraining to regain human behavior, he has refused to budge from his bizarre habits.

At first, he would eat only cooked food in a hospital diet, but now he eats only raw meat. The hunters who found him said they saw him devour a deer that he hunted down and ate it raw like a leopard. He had to have food sent to him to keep him from starving.

But finally he is making progress and he is beginning to respond. One of these days he will leave the hospital and be a normal boy again, the hospital spokesman said.

Soon, they say, he will be back to a normal life with his parents and his eight brothers and sisters. Those of which probably don't even remember that he existed.

"It's as if he has died and come back to life," tearful mother Nandah said after learning that her long lost son had been found alive and well.

I remember his death every day for my little angel.

But soon he will be with me again. My life is full of joy and I give thanks to the gods who protected him all these years.

I am also most grateful to all the doctors who are helping Tengah," she said.

A GROUP of hunters in southern Sumatra, seven, found Tengah near the mouth of a jungle cave.

New piggy diet aid squeals on fatties

Fearful fatties are running from their refrigerators and losing tons of flab — thanks to a bizarre new weight loss device called the U-Pig Diet Plan.

U-Pig is a 6-inch-high plastic porker designed to squeal whenever the refrigerator light goes on. When midnight raiders try to sneak a snack, piglet oinks pierce the night every time the refrigerator door opens.

The talk-talc pig sells for $16.99 and is marketed by Fun-Damental Too Ltd. of Huntingdon Valley, Pa. Sales are brisk, its developers say.

Folks who've used the hog alarm swear by it. They say it's so embarrassing to get caught with your hand in the fridge that you'll do anything to avoid it.

Woman plunges 50 feet through sidewalk grate

A woman miraculously escaped death when she stepped out of a cab and fell 50 feet through a sidewalk subway grating onto the tracks below.

The goldenhaired 25-year-old woman luckily didn't touch the 600-volt subway rail.

If she had, it would have meant certain death by electrocution.

The grating may have been weakened by the thousands of cars driving over it during road repairs, said a spokesman for the New York City Transit Authority.

Blind man climbs down well to save boy!

Gentle giant Bruno Bianchi managed to scramble over fallen trees and jagged rocks, then climb down an abandoned well to rescue a trapped toddler — even though he's as blind as a bat!

Big Bruno, a 6-foot, 4-inch blind handyman in the Italian village of Viterbo, north of Rome, was more than 100 yards away when 4-year-old Dino Ragusa tumbled into the previously covered well.

"I heard a scream and I knew that a child was in grave danger," 36-year-old Bruno said. "I listened very carefully. Being blind since birth has made my ears very sensitive to sound directions.

"I heard a boy [redacted] and I knew right away that he was coming from the direction of the old well. I thought, 'If I go to the village for help, it may take too long to help the child.'

"I began moving very quickly in the direction of the child's cries, but I kept falling over rocks and trees and losing my sense of direction. I had to stop and get my bearings.

"When I knew I was very close, I began feeling with my hands for the wooden cover that was put over the well years ago after another child had fallen in and was killed."

Bruno groped blindly for the cover, but the rocks and thick brush made it difficult for the sightless hero to find.

"I could hear the child sobbing and calling to his mama and I began to panic. Then I found the cover and began ripping it away with my bare hands."

Bruno then lowered himself down the rock-walled shaft, got a precarious foothold in a crevice, grabbed for Dino and hauled him to safety.

The youngster had desperately clung to a protruding rock 30 feet down the shaft for nearly 30 minutes before he was rescued.

If he had lost his hold, he would have dropped to the water 15 feet below.

"I am not a hero," Bruno declared modestly. "It was something that had to be done and I did it.

"Dino deserves a lot of credit for holding on to the rock until I could get to him."

Since little Dino's ordeal with death, villagers have filled the well with rocks and capped it with a concrete cover.

Fishing cap catches bag of stolen jewels

A cop took a day off to go fishing and caught a whopper — a bag full of two pounds of stolen jewels.

The unidentified police inspector reeled in the bizarre catch while fishing in the Rhone River outside Lyon, France.

Inside the bag were necklaces, rings, bracelets and precious stones. Cops speculate thieves selected the most expensive pieces from robberies and tossed the rest of the loot in the river.

Soviet soldiers find alien bodies

Letter from Russian to his family confirms horror discovery

The Soviets have discovered the corpses of seven monkey-size aliens in Afghanistan and taken them to Moscow for scientific study, says a letter received by his family from a Russian soldier.

He said the Russians also have the charred wreckage of the aliens' spaceship which crashed in a ball of fire on a hillside 40 miles south of Kabul.

The incredible letter was mailed from Afghanistan with the help of a Swiss businessman who forwarded copies to newspapers throughout Europe. It was dated November 3 and was first published in France and Germany on December 21.

The letter described the aliens as being the size of monkeys with long pointy ears and tiny eyes. It went on to say that their horribly burned bodies were shipped to Moscow, where they are almost sure to undergo scientific investigation, the European newspapers said.

By ALEX JACKSON

Dr. Albert Speiser, the French UFO expert, called the discovery of the spaceship and bodies "the most important UFO development of the decade."

He also replied on the Soviets to share what information they have about the early interaction with researchers in the West, many of whom have already asked Moscow if they can see the bodies firsthand.

So far the Soviets have remained tight-lipped about the alleged crashing craft and recovery of its crew. Repeated phone calls to European embassy officials went unanswered.

And here at the Beijing office of the Soviet Embassy in Washington didn't return calls from The NEWS to either confirm or deny the discovery.

But the Kabul Times reported that a heavily guarded convoy of Russian Army vehicles including a refrigerator truck passed through Kabul in early November, destination unknown.

There also were unconfirmed reports a few days earlier that some type of space vehicle had crashed in the hills 50 miles south of Kabul.

Adding even more credibility to what could be the scientific discovery of the century is a newspaper report out of Paris, France.

The newspaper, Le Croix, reported in early November that Dr. Vladimir Tolsky, one of Russia's top pathological scientists, was abruptly called back to Moscow.

Dear Mother: I hope you are as well as I am. Last night I and 30 of my comrades were taken at night by truck 75 kilometers south of Kabul.

On a hillside was the burned wreckage of a spaceship and the bodies of seven little men no taller than 3 feet, about the size of a monkey.

They were horribly burned, had huge pointed ears and tiny eyes. They were bald with no eyebrows or eyelashes.

Their naked bodies were being placed in plastic bags and loaded into a refrigerator truck. Tags attached to their toes said they were bound for Moscow.

When my sergeant saw me looking, he chased me away. 'These are men from Mars,' he said. 'Don't look.'

I and my comrades worked through the night loading the spaceship wreckage on the trucks. When we finished, we were told not to tell anyone.

With love, your son.

'Finger' costs driver his life

An angry motorist died when he lost control of his car while giving "the finger" to a woman who was driving too slow to suit him.

Guy Clark, 68, sideswiped the woman's car, struck a pickup truck and slammed into a concrete guard rail on Jefferson in Alexandria, Va.

"He pulled alongside the woman's car, hollered something and gave her 'the finger,'" said police spokesman Dennis Butler.

"Unfortunately, he took his eyes off the road for a split second and lost control of his car. Apparently, he was impatient because she wasn't driving fast enough."

Cops said the woman and a passenger in her car were not seriously injured. Neither was the driver of the pickup truck.

Clark of Arlington, Va., was

Ghost nun still sings in church

Loyal nun Clelia Barbieri kept her vow never to desert her fellow sisters by miraculously continuing to sing prayers at her church — 119 years after her death.

Even Vatican bigwigs have verified the miracle that the beautiful, clear voice that sings in the Bedriz, Italy, chapel — or other churches of Clelia's order — is that of the nun who died at 33 in 1870.

"There is no doubt that people hear her voice even today," said Monsignor Emidio Pelagosi of Rome.

"I have corrected so girls sing the Vatican to accept that the voice of Clelia Barbieri has been heard and is still being heard, as a miracle attributed to her." Pelagosi said.

One nun who heard the voice was Sister Teresa Veronesi. "I heard a voice coming from the tomb of Sister Clelia. It was an unreal place open and run through the room where we sang," she said.

Sister Clelia's spirit has done more than just sing. Maria Baggiani claims the wonderful nun cured her son.

Maria was at death's door after a gall bladder operation at a hospital run by Clelia's order, the Little Sisters of Our Lady of Sorrows. The Sisters began to pray with her and Maria asked the spirit of Sister Clelia to help.

"One evening I heard her voice loud and clear as if to assure the sky prayers would be answered," Maria recalled.

From that moment on, she began improving. Even a bath nurse began healing.

Sister Clelia was born in 1847 to a poor family in Pieve di Cento near Bologna. At 11, she nearly died from tuberculosis. But the girl survived and became a little mother to the poor children of her village.

At 20 she got her girl friends to help her start a home for the sick to aid orphanages.

This was the beginning of the Little Sisters order. But her tuberculosis reappeared and she died in 1870 at age 33. Just before her death, she told her family and friends:

"I am going to Paradise, but I will always be in the place I will never [illegible]."

Exactly one year later, while the Sisters were holding a Mass at the room where she died, the heavenly voice of Sister Clelia was heard singing. One of the eyewitnesses at this miracle, Sister Ursula Donini, said a prayer to have the dead at 33.

"We were singing when

Drug pusher wants a new trial — he slept through the first one!

Convicted drug dealer Michael Hansen claims he got a raw deal when he was found guilty — even though he slept through most of the trial.

Hansen suffers from a rare disorder — obstructive sleep apnea — and couldn't stay awake during his trial, according to his attorney William Kunstler.

The lawyer said a judge's decision not to declare a new trial was "outrageous." But the Brooklyn, N.Y. Appellate Division upheld the conviction, saying the rare disorder is not a "mental disease or defect."

'Decent' kids kill man, 57, by tossing 30-pound block onto interstate

By PETE COOKE

Three teens with nothing better to do dropped a 30-pound concrete block from an interstate overpass, shattering the windshield of a pickup truck and killing a father of eight instantly, cops say.

Charles Layfield, 57, was on his way home from a hunting trip with two friends when he was killed, said authorities in Joliet, Ill.

Police acting on an anonymous tip arrested Leon De Rosia, 18, Matthew Taylor and Kevin De Lorenzo, both 18.

"They were quiet, polite, just good kids," said Gerald Lauritsen, principal of Minooka Trail High School where the three had been students. But police say the teens dropped objects from an overpass once in versions of 57 times they were turned.

"They said they had nothing to do so they decided to play a game and give points for hits and near-misses," an investigator said.

Prosecutor Ed Burmila said it was De Rosia who dropped the 30-pound concrete block, killing Layfield.

"The pickup driven by Layfield's friend, Kenneth Hooks, was doing about 55 miles an hour," Burmila said.

"Layfield was sitting in the middle of the seat and he was killed instantly."

"It was horrible," said Hooks, who swerved to the shoulder of the interstate after the concrete block shattered the windshield of his pickup and killed his friend.

"Charles was a very, very loving person and he was extremely good with kids," said his friend, Dorothy Conkle. Layfield's [illegible] for 31 years.

All three were booked for murder.

"They are kids from decent homes," said Lauritsen. The principal: "I'm afraid it was a prank that backfired."

Discovery May End Obesity

Blocks calorie absorption

SWEDEN - Medical researchers at the University of Joensuu, in Finland have discovered an incredibly new weight-loss formula. The new discovery makes an overweight individual throw pounds and fully digest without dieting or exercise.

Scientists made the discovery while searching for a formula to lower cholesterol. In a controlled study of a test group of people, cholesterol levels remained unchanged but the doctors were astounded to find that every person who used the formula lost weight. The published report of the study stated "A highly significant decrease in body weight was noted" in patients who received the formula.

The formula was first tested in Sweden at Saligorsk Hospital. University of Gothenburg. Again, all patients lost a substantial amount of weight even though they did not change their eating habits. The report detailing the study, published in the Finnish journal of Nutrition, stated "Body weight was significantly reduced even though the patients were specifically asked not to alter their dietary habits." One patient in the study lost more than 30 pounds.

According to the informed source, the active ingredient comes from a little natural-found mineral and contains no drugs or stimulants. When taken before breakfast it binds with the food you eat and "ties up" calories, preventing their absorption.

A substantial portion of the calories consumed each day comes from the digestive system undigested. The body has to get energy to replace the low calories and starts to burn stored fat. The result is rapid body weight loss. Moreover, blood tests have verified the safety of the formula's long term use.

The formula is marketed in tablet form in the United States under the trade name of Diet Trim. A firm located in Tampa, Florida, has exclusive North American distribution rights. A review of the customer files of the company revealed the names of hundreds of people who have lost up to 31 pounds the first week and an average 20. Plus 60 or more pounds overall with Diet Trim 2000. This is a golden opportunity for people who are stunned by fat and cellulite that they can't seem to lose by conventional methods.

Diet Trim 2000 is available priced at $19.95 for a 2-week supply and $39.95 for a 6-week supply. Postage and handling is $1. Sickos turn vicious dogs loose on kids in playground

One of them was bitten 30 times.

YUK! Bizarre festival serves slugs for snacks

By JOE SERGEL

If you're the squeamish sort, you'd better eat before you get to the spring fest in Monte Rio, Calif. — because all the dishes at this shindig are made from fat, slimy slugs!

The tummy-turning bill of fare at the annual Slug Fest includes everything from martinis with a slug twist to slugarani to slug upside-down cake or lime Jell-O with whole slugs.

"They even puree them and make a nice slug mousse," said Tom Richman, general manager of the local newspaper. "They say that's real good."

The bizarre bash is held every March to coincide with the coming of thousands of ugly little banana slugs that invade Sonoma County in the spring.

"We were looking for something exciting to do during a time of year when everybody was coming down with cabin fever," said Richman, who teamed up with his wife Elizabeth to organize the first of this far-out festivals 19 years ago.

"We had all these slugs, so we figured why not make good use of them."

But there's more to a Slug Fest than gooey cuisine.

There's the slug sprint, for instance, where the slippery critters race — inch by agonizing inch — across a game board while an official rolls the event with all the enthusiasm of a Kentucky Derby announcer.

Then comes the squirming competition, where the biggest slug of them all is dropped in a velvet purple cape and toted out on a purple pillow while being serenaded with the theme from Rocky.

Still, it's the stomach-jolting slug cook-off that really gets the locals' juices flowing.

A panel of politicians and public officials judges gourmet goodies ranging from slug bakeries to slug chili to slug dogs — grilled slugs in hot dog buns.

Residents throw gigantic party to welcome invasion of slimy critters

SQUIRMY — Try walking down some slug chili or other slimy treats at the California festival.

A 45-year-old trucker lost an arm in an explosion apparently triggered by a propane torch he was using to thaw out the brakes on his rig.

Dale Carpenter was rushed by helicopter to St. Anthony Hospital in Denver, Colo., where he was listed in critical condition after doctors performed surgery.

A spokesman at Jim's Welder Service, where Carpenter worked, said the trucker had arrived for work at about 8:30 a.m. and was trying to thaw out his truck's brakes when the explosion [illegible]

Do-it-yourself exorcist, 74, beats her friend to death!

By RAGAN DUNN

A do-it-yourself exorcist beat her best friend to death while trying to get rid of the demons that had tormented her for years!

"I was only trying to help," heartbroken Maria Kohler, 74, told reporters in Constance, West Germany.

"Anna Hamlin was my best friend, and I loved her. She was my own sister. But I had to get rough.

"She was possessed and had been for years."

Police charged Miss Kohler with manslaughter in the death of her 69-year-old friend but called the crime itself a tragedy.

In the bid to exorcise Miss Hamlin, Miss Kohler cracked a broomstick over her head, a fire poker and a rolling pin, they said.

"She obviously got carried away," Police Sgt. Reid Peters told newsmen. "It's hard to imagine how such a frail old lady could murder anyone.

"But believe me, she did."

In her statement to police, Miss Kohler said her friend had been tormented by evil demons for years. The victim's sister Ilse said Miss Hamlin suffered from delusions, fits of anger and [illegible] headaches, she said.

"This went on for years and nobody and even doctors could help her," said Miss Kohler. "I finally decided to take matters into my own hands.

"I read a book about demons and exorcism and got myself a broomstick. I thought I could beat the demons out."

Miss Kohler suffered severe head and chest injuries in the botched exorcism, Sgt. Peters said. Miss Kohler turned herself in.

He said she made the statement:

"I killed my friend."

"The irony of all this is that the dead woman wasn't necessarily possessed," said Sgt. Peters.

"If she was, anybody

Abused horse tries suicide

. . . after vicious beating by cruel trainer!

Ruthless racehorse trainer Harry Bell has been sentenced to jail for beating a frightened little filly so brutally that the horse tried to commit suicide!

Heartless Harry, 40, got six months in prison for cruelty after a stunned stable girl told how the horrified animal tried to kill herself by banking her head against the back of a truck.

By JOE BERGER

Disgusted Nadia Dalbreuse told a court in Jedburgh, Scotland, that the former champion trainer:

● Beat the pitiful pony with a stick when she fell during an exercise run.

● Tied the terrified filly to the back of his truck and drove until the dark bay thoroughbred collapsed from exhaustion.

● Then choked the helpless horse by tightening a rope around her neck.

"I'd never seen anything so cruel in my life," said kind-hearted Nadia, 19. "I almost got sick to my stomach.

"The little filly was so scared she wouldn't get up off the ground. When she finally did get up, she started banging her head against the truck. It was obvious she wanted to kill herself."

The tearful teen said she managed to get the animal back to her stall — then quit her job and set off to tell the police.

"That was my first day of work for that man, and I know I could never go back," she said.

The hard-hitting horseman has handled some of Britain's top thoroughbreds over the years, but Lawmen and racing officials have known of his cold-blooded training tactics for some time.

The bullying bully was fined $700 in 1984 after an SPCA inspector found a racehorse in his care that was literally starving to death.

Hotheaded Harry was fined again a short time later after he challenged a veterinarian to a gunfight during a drunken rage.

And he was hauled into court once more after an inspector accused him of cruelty to two heifers on his farm.

"A man like that should never be allowed to get near another animal," said Nadia. "He's an animal pervert."

WITNESSES said racehorse trainer Harry Bell, who has a reputation for animal cruelty, beat a filly so brutally that the frantic horse began banging her head against the back of a truck — so she'd die and end her torture.

Drug law misspelling sets man free

Lucky David Burling was acquitted of a drug charge — because Nebraska politicians didn't know how to spell the name of the drug he was accused of possessing.

The 19-year-old Kenesaw, Nebr., man was charged with selling and distributing a so-called designer drug known as "Ecstasy."

But when they passed a law making the drug illegal, Nebraska legislature misspelled the drug's scientific name — methylenedioxy-methamphetamine. So Adams County District Judge Bernard Spragues ruled that Burling didn't violate the law because he hadn't possessed the drug named in the state law.

LOVERS GET CARRIED AWAY

— when their car is sucked into the sea!

A teenage couple parked to smooch on the beach and really got carried away — when their car was suddenly swept into the raging North Sea!

British authorities said the young couple's romantic evening became an instant nightmare at Spooky Beach in Hythe, England.

John Cole, 18, and his 17-year-old girlfriend Nicola Stephenson were parked on a beat Friday when their ordeal began.

"I parked on a ramp leading from the promenade," said John, an auto mechanic. "It was dark and I didn't realize the ramp was covered with moss. All of a sudden a series of big waves hit us and we started driving forward.

"I knew there was a 4-foot drop at the end of the ramp, but because the tide was in we just floated out."

John's car drifted out to sea, floating on the surface for several minutes before it started to sink into the frigid black water. As water rushed into the car John managed to push his door open, then grabbed his girlfriend and swam out. After they escaped from the sinking car John lost his grip on Nicola, who can't swim, but found her again and pulled her through the huge waves to shore.

Fishermen who witnessed the near-tragedy called for help and by the time John and Nicola reached the beach paramedics had arrived. Suffering from shock, Nicola was rushed to a hospital.

EDDIE Coyle and wife Angela, as seen on their wedding day, a normal, happy couple.

Guess which

By SUSAN RAMSON

After 18 years of marriage and five beautiful children, Eddie Coyle finally got his fondest wish. He became a woman.

The taxi-driver transsexual confessed to his loving wife, his three sons and his two daughters that he had always been a female at heart and wanted to spend the rest of his life as a lady. Incredibly, his family accepted his decision and continue to live with the dad-turned-dame in their Glen Cove, N.Y., home.

Today Eddie is called "Liz" and he's a doting mum to his children Cathy, 23, Eddie, 21, Patty, 20, Chris, 18 and Warren, 10. His wife Marie admits Eddie's sex switch spelled death for their marriage, but insists her friendship for Liz makes life together a pleasure.

"I don't think of this person as my husband anymore," Marie said of Liz. "But you can have a great relationship with a person and not really understand them.

"If I had my druthers, I think I'd like a nice, normal marriage. But suppose I was married to someone who had to be institutionalized. Or someone disabled. Would I walk out? Would I leave them? I love this caring person who can give me many insights and I don't think that that is worth walking out the door."

In the 30 years before he became a woman, Eddie Coyle lived a macho life. He was a volunteer fireman, a candidate for mayor of his town, a model husband and father. He was a bodybuilder, a baseball player, a regular guy.

But during that time, the tormented transsexual kept a deep, dark secret. When no one was around, he filched women's clothing from his family and dressed up in bras,

CLOSE CALL!

Wife saved from ax-swinging hubby — by a falling beam!

Ax-wielding madman Andre Martin had bashed down a bathroom door and was just seconds away from chopping his terrified wife to bits — when a beam fell from the ceiling and knocked him down dead!

Investigators say the bizarre twist of fate undoubtedly saved the life of desperate Denise Martin — and possibly the life of the 2-year-old son she clutched in her arms.

"He was going to kill her, and maybe the boy, too," policeman Paul Jurel told news reporters outside Paris, France.

"But all the banging he was doing brought that loose beam down right on his head. It was like the Good Lord stepped in and spared her."

The spine-chilling tale began earlier that evening when hotheaded Andre, 36, stopped off at his neighborhood bar, where pals joked that his wife was slipping around with another man.

"Andre was so jealous of Denise, we loved to kid him about her being unfaithful," said shocked bartender and family friend Bernard Fay-est. "As far as any of us knew, she was a devoted wife and mother. We thought that deep down, Andre knew that — so we didn't feel guilty about giving him a bad time.

"But that night we were a little rougher on him than usual, and when he stormed out of the bar we all knew we'd overdone the teasing this time."

With his buddies' taunts still ringing in his ears, the jealousy-crazed factory worker stormed home, grabbed an ax and confronted his terrified wife in their living room.

"He was insane," grieving Denise said later. "He started screaming that he knew what I'd been up to and he was going to kill me. I could tell by the look on his face that he meant it, so I picked up our son Alain and ran into the bathroom and locked the door."

As the terrified mom cowered in a shower stall, wild-eyed Andre started hacking down the wooden door with the ax.

"He had chopped all the way through and was starting to come after me when the beam crashed down from the ceiling and the end of it hit him across the back of the head," the shaken lady recalled.

"I could tell he was dead, so I held onto Alain and ran to a neighbor's house for help.

"I had been pleading with Andre to fix that loose beam for weeks. If he had gotten around to doing it, I wouldn't be alive today."

Vacation lawsuit shocker!

A newspaper reporter went to court against his employer claiming he was punished for taking his annual vacation.

Toshiaki Yamaguchi of Tokyo, Japan, took a month off in 1980, even though it is the custom in Japan never to take more than five days off in a row. The holiday was owed to him, but Yamaguchi was forced to give up part of his annual bonus by his angry employers.

Yamaguchi took his employers, Jiji Press, to court and won $1,500 compensation.

"What's the point of having a system of paid annual leave if you're punished for taking it?" he said after the court decision was finally announced.

"I liked the way the girls dressed," he recalled. "I liked the way girls acted. I liked the way people reacted to them. It seemed like a fair, sweet lifestyle."

Eddie's secret desires finally drove him to alcoholism and thoughts of suicide. He became so depressed he could tolerate his conflict no longer — and in 1983 he finally made the decision to become the woman he always wanted to be.

"All my life I have been dressing up in women's clothes," he told his wife and family. "I am going to have to live the rest of my life as a woman."

Since that fateful day, Eddie Coyle has become a woman, Lia Coyle. She wears makeup and feminine clothes. She takes female hormones and has developed breasts. And she's making plans for sex reassignment surgery that will one day give her the genitals of her new sex. She's saving for the operation right now.

"I have no regrets," Lia told The ARTIST. "I'm much happier now. And I even went public so that I could help other people like me who go through life feeling that they don't fit in.

"I wanted to let them know that hey, you can survive. You can have your dreams. I wanted
